Corporate Profile

AGL Resources (NYSE: AGL), a Fortune 1000 corporation, is well-positioned to be the preeminent distributor of natural gas on the East Coast, with six utilities serving 2.2 million customers. This core business is supported by related companies -- an asset management company, salt-dome storage facilities and an active business development division -- dedicated to ensuring a reliable supply of natural gas to AGL Resources' residential, commercial and industrial customers.

Over the past five years, AGL Resources has transformed its operations from a traditional regional utility company to a modern, high-performance, multi-regional energy company. During that time, the company has expanded its operations significantly through a combination of acquisitions, development activities and the implementation of technology solutions across each of its business units.
